A user can use it to input characters without the use of a physical keyboard. But sometimes, in the middle of typing something, you realize that you need to use a physical keyboard. You have to stop and exit the virtual keyboard, switch to the physical keyboard, type the characters you need and then come back to the virtual keyboard. Is there any alternative to this virtual keyboard application? A virtual keyboard is a special keyboard that is used in a computer system as an alternative to the built-in keyboard. Like the real keyboard, it also has the letters and special characters of the language the computer is using, but instead of pressing physical key on the keyboard, it uses a different method. The letters or numbers are then displayed on the screen. Like the real keyboard, it does not have to be physically connected to the system, and you can
